

Project: Professional Development Framework for e-learning

Client: LSN
2006

QTP Ltd, working in partnership with LSN and St Helens College, managed a project to design learning resources and digital learning objects to support the LSN eCPD framework. QTP also assisted in the design, writing and production of 36 PDF eCPD support documents and 55 interactive Flash digital learning resources to support the LSN Professional Development Framework for e-learning.

'Self-assessment is an integral part of the teacher's professional role and is initiated in a variety of ways ranging from the responses from our learners to feedback from an Ofsted inspection. The e-learning professional development (ePD) framework for e-learning has at its heart this very concept of self-assessment working on the premise that you 'need to know where you are in order to know where you want to go'. The eCPD individual self-assessment tool is designed to help you formulate your professional development as associated with your teaching and delivery.'
